

Abstract

Speckle based optical navigation is improved by increasing the collection efficiency of the photodetector through the introduction of a lightpipe or reflector technology. For example, the use of elliptical sidewalls and diffraction gratings in 5 conjunction with a lightpipe leads to improvements in collection efficiency.